JMI organises Android and Web Development Meetup

Jamia Millia Islamia's Centre for Innovation and Entrepreneurship's (CIE) flagship programme, HASHes - Jamia's Programming Club organised a meetup on Android and Web Development, on 22nd February 2018.

44 young and budding software development enthusiasts attended the event, where the application and scope of Mobile App Development and Web Development were discussed. The students were briefed on the resources to learn from, provided a beginner's guide and were given inputs to pursue the two booming technologies. They were also apprised of the merits and demerits of these platforms.

Students were shown the group's website <https://hashes-jmi.github.io> and explained how to develop such websites collaboratively. The group plans many more such events to help students develop skills required in the Software Development industry.
