JMI inaugurates its own in-house dedicated press facility, 'Jamia Press,' at the Office of the Controller of Examinations

New Delhi, February 19, 2026

In a landmark move towards promoting academic publishing of its high-quality books, research and publicity material, and attaining institutional autonomy and confidentiality of examination-related work, Jamia Millia Islamia (JMI) has developed its own printing press named 'Jamia Press' at the Controller of Examinations (CoE) Office of the university. The facility was inaugurated yesterday by the Vice-Chancellor of JMI, Prof. Mazhar Asif, and the Registrar of JMI, Prof. Md Mahtab Alam Rizvi, in the presence of the Controller of Examinations, Prof. Ahteshamul Haque.

In his welcome address, Prof. Haque, CoE, lauded the dynamic leadership of the Hon'ble Vice Chancellor and the constant guidance of the Registrar, as a consequence of which the University has witnessed remarkable growth in academic innovation, infrastructure development, and institutional reputation. "Their foresight and commitment continue to shape Jamia into a beacon of learning and research," Prof. Haque said. "There was a dire need to establish the 'Jamia Press' so as to meet the requirements of printing a growing volume of confidential examination materials, academic publications, official documents, prospectuses, reports, and research output. All these made it essential for us to have a secure, efficient, and self-reliant printing system. Dependence on external agencies not only posed logistical challenges but also raised concerns related to confidentiality, timeliness, and cost-effectiveness."

Highlighting JMI's efficiency in conducting exams on time and in the timely declaration of results, Prof. Haque lauded the cooperation of all faculty members of the university for their cooperation and particularly the hard work of staff of the office of CoE in making it an achievable target.

Addressing the event, Prof. Md Mahtab Alam Rizvi appreciated the development work underway at the office of CoE to attain automation and to evolve full-fledged in-house admission and examination facilities like printing of question papers, OMR scanning, and degree printing, among other facilities. Stating that very soon "JMI will become a role model for other universities," Prof. Rizvi congratulated Prof. Ahteshamul Haque and his team for doing the commendable work of setting up the Jamia Press, adding, "Equipped with the latest printing technology, the Jamia Press shall provide faculty members and the large research community of JMI with a reliable platform to showcase their academic contributions with a reduced turnaround time and without having to depend on external publishing agencies.”

Hailing the setting up of the Jamia Press as a major step that exemplifies JMI's commitment to academic excellence and operational integrity, Prof. Mazhar Asif, VC JMI, said that “earlier, many complaints were received regarding the late issue of degrees and marksheets, exams not being conducted on time, and results being declared late, but now things have been streamlined and improved with praiseworthy work being done by the Office of CoE to address all these issues. It is reassuring to note that now students can download their degrees and marksheets in the online mode.” Prof. Asif also appreciated the CoE, Prof. Haque, for “working diligently and sincerely to establish the Jamia Press, besides setting up a well-planned, centralized evaluation hall and an efficient and dedicated admission cell in a very short duration of time.” Prof. Asif expressed his optimism that “very soon JAMIA-PRESS shall make a mark as a reputed publisher, and faculty members of JMI shall publish their books from Jamia Press itself.”

The event was attended by deans, heads, directors, officials, and other teaching and non-teaching members of the university. Dr. Amina Husain, CPIO-Exams, conducted the event and proposed a vote of thanks.
